

About the Paper Museum

Mission: "Trace the history of paper, learn from the present, and contemplate the future."

The Paper Museum introduces the history and culture of paper and the paper industry from two perspectives: Washi, which is Japanese traditional paper, and Western-style paper, which contributed to the economic growth of modern Japan.

Looking after and displaying a collection of 40,000 items and 15,000 books, we are one of the world's few museums specializing in paper and covering all aspects of paper.
